Summary of Institution Mission and Student Achievement

Lakewood University's mission is to improve the quality of life of our students by providing excellent, affordable, and in-demand educational programs using various distance learning methods. For decades, the institution has measured institutional effectiveness, mission alignment, and student achievement built upon four overarching pillars:

- 1) collecting evidence of student achievement
- 2) conducting surveys to ensure student satisfaction
- 3) tracking student progress through their course and/or program and calculating completion rates
- 4) following up on graduate success in the workplace.

Lakewood University uses internal and external measurement tools to ensure the key indicators of our mission are continuously met. This is ensuring alignment with quality of life, excellence, in-demand education, cutting-edge technology, and affordability.
